The President's Report 1954

FOR THE first time in the history of the Canadian Picture Pioneers we have been able to put into print at least a brief record of its formation and of its activities to date. This you can read in the pages of this book. As you do so you will find that this organization was conceived with the best of intentions and endowed with the highest principles. Not long after its formation, realization came to the directors that fraternity did not give sufficient compulsion to an organization to make it a respected and lasting one. There had to be added the elements of charity and public service.

Charity took the form of the Benevolent Fund which, over the years, has had some excellent support from the branches but never before a plan and source for regular income. Such a plan was instituted this last year when a campaign, directed at firms doing business in or with our industry, was started for the purpose of having them place the Benevolent Fund on their regular charity lists. The response, though not what we hoped it would be, indicated that this revised approach to obtaining income will probably be the most lasting and beneficial.

Our efforts in the field of public service have found fruition in the Pioneer of the Year Award Dinner, the first of which was held in 1952. These have attracted national and, in some cases, international attention to our accomplishments as individuals and as an industry. We have brought the people of our country to a closer understanding of our industry and those in it. The public relations value is incalculable.

The appreciation of each other which we sought in the beginning has not been overlooked. Few trade organizations enjoy the degree of fraternity which comes to us through the annual golf tournament, our annual meeting, with its initiation ceremonies, and our annual Pioneer Award Dinner.

As one surveys these things, comparing them with trade social bodies in and out of the motion picture industry, we can take pride in them as unmatched. They are, in some cases, imitated.

Behind accomplishments are people. Our members, serving in dozens of ways and in every degree of responsibility, have demonstrated their sincerity as well as their willingness. Their help was invaluable during my term of office. May I emphasize that this is true nationally? In every region or province where there is a Pioneer branch, the same devotion to our principles, so close to the Golden Rule, has been observed by all. What we are we owe to our members. To some of them we owe more than we can ever repay. I hope that those who are honored in the future with the obligation of service and leadership will be equally as fortunate.

History
Canadian Picture
Pioneers

NOW, as this friend of their youthful years was being laid gently in the waiting earth, they remembered his life and theirs in the golden days gone forever. When they turned away their grief was lessened by the sight of old and good friends all about. Greeting the living with warm words, the sense of urgency stopped its nagging. There was an inner blush of shame in the realization that most of these friends had been out of each other's minds and hearts and presence for too long.

"It seems that these days we meet only at funerals," observed Jack Cohn. Standing near, Herman Robbins and John Buckley shook their heads sadly.

How many times had this been said on how many such occasions? And having been said once more, would hurry and worry rule their minds, again blotting out the remembrance of friends?

This time, resolved Jack Cohn and his friends, was the last time. To make sure of that they organized the Motion Picture Pioneers.

Why was it so necessary to organize against hurry and worry as the enemies of friendship? Because hurry and worry are the children of uncertainty and uncertainty has a home of its own in the motion picture industry. Men invest millions, often borrowed, to make motion pictures, each of which requires that the different creative talents of many persons be unified successfully. Even if what emerges is considered a success, there is no guarantee of financial gain.

It stands to reason that an industry subject to creative uncertainty at its source and public whim, weather, epidemics, the state of employment and an increasing variety of competition at its terminus is not likely to build a sense of security in its people. Those up against these things are apt to think long and hard about how to obtain the least degree of uncertainty for their offerings. Thus hurry and worry become a part of daily living and drive all but urgent matters out of mind.

There are compensations, of course. Men living in an atmosphere of uncertainty are always as bright as today, for new ideas are their inseparable companions. And isn't this the nearest any of us can come to a youthful old age?

Jack Cohn and his friends knew that if a way could be found to bring and keep these friends together, they would enjoy and help each other. So they established the Motion Picture Pioneers. It proved their point immediately and several Canadians, among them Oscar R. Hanson and John J. Fitzgibbons of Toronto, joined it.

I was also present

WHEN Oscar Hanson got back to his office he asked two old friends, Clair Hague and Ray Lewis, to step in. He greeted them with a significant smile and laid before their eyes a small and attractive gold-plated card. The neat engraving told them what that smile meant—that this was a membership card in the Motion Picture Pioneers and that they were in for an earful from Oscar about it. But they needed no urging to help him organize a Canadian equivalent. Clair, one of the most important and popular motion picture pioneers in Canada, and Ray, editor and publisher of the Canadian Moving Picture Digest were just the good companions Oscar needed.

And so a pre-incorporation meeting followed in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto a few months after the American body was established. The date was January 31 and the year, 1940, was to shape the actions of the group, then known as the Canadian Pioneers Film Club. As host Oscar introduced the subject, Ray read the best wishes of Jack Cohn and Leo Devaney acted as chairman. Clair Hague was made chairman of the Constitutional Committee.

Those present gave their names and the year each had entered the industry: Edwin Wells, 1912; Herbert Allen, 1912; Haskell Masters, 1914; Louis Rosenfeld, 1912; James R. O'Loghlin, 1914; Fred Pursel, 1909; Oscar Hanson, 1913; Leo Devaney, 1913; Ray Lewis, 1912; Jake Smith, 1909; Sam Sternberg, 1911; Sam Glazer, 1905; Archie Laurie, 1912; Syd Taube, 1910; Charles Rotenberg, 1910; Charles L. Stephenson, 1897; Ben Cronk, 1901; Clair Hague, 1901; and Hyman Rotenberg, 1910.

The second pre-incorporation meeting, attended by ten members of the committee for the constitution, took place in Clair Hague's office on February 8, 1940. Here it was decided to limit membership to persons associated with the motion picture industry for 25 years and to pattern the by-laws on those of the USA organization. The style of insignia and the size of the dues were agreed on and each member present put in $10 for expenses.

The third pre-incorporation meeting, held in Hague's office on March 20, 1940, was attended by eight but it was important and interesting.

The charter from the Dominion of Canada had been granted the organization, now known as the Canadian Picture Pioneers. The names it bears is the Honor Roll of the Pioneers — Hague, Laurie, Hanson, Masters, O'Loghlin, Rosenfeld, Devaney, Lewis, Wells, Cronk Taube, Allen, Smith, Sternberg, Stephenson and Pursel. The charter set forth many things and some of these were amended from time to time under the guidance of the Honorable Earl Lawson, KC, who, with David Ongley, QC, had become the Pioneers' counsel.

NOTHING in the charter is so important as its description of the "purposes and objects" of the pioneers:

1. To create and promote

friendly relations amongst those who have been or are engaged in or who have been or are actively connected with the motion picture industry;

"2. To create and promote friendly relations and understanding between the public and those engaged in or actively connected with the motion picture industry;

"3. To aid those in need who were formerly in and part of the motion picture industry without in any way expecting or requiring the persons in receipt of such to purchase or pay for such assistance either by contribution, donations, assessments or otherwise."

The charter, ratified by the Secretary of State on December 13, 1940, was signed by E. H. Coleman, Under Secretary of State. Clair Hague and Ray Lewis signed it as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Canadian Picture Pioneers. At the next meeting, in Hague's office on April 19, 1940, he and Miss Lewis were ratified in office and Oscar Hanson elected vice-president.

The idea of remembering friends was begun immediately—by electing Jack Cohn honorary president.

AT the first general meeting, held on May 1 in a room arranged to look like an old-time nickelodeon, 105 life members were inducted. In the meetings that followed various committees were appointed. One aimed at increasing USA tourism in Canada, an Ottawa campaign, was set up.

John J. Fitzgibbons became public relations officer.

This was in the Spring of 1940 and Canada had been at war since early in September, 1939. As always, the national interest came first. It was decided to bring in Gene Autry's rodeo and devote the profits to the war effort. This was an undertaking requiring tremendous devotion. It got it—mainly from one man, the late Charlie Mavety. The rodeo represented everything together that Charlie was interested in—movies, cowboys, helpfulness and friendship. You see, Charlie, a Saskatchewan cowboy who came to the city and became a projectionist, ran a film delivery business. He maintained a real-style Western ranch near Toronto, the Circle M. His untimely passing a few years ago brought deep sorrow into the Toronto motion picture community.

The Autry effort was a fine start, for it led to $25,000 being sent to Britain, where enemy bombs had caused homelessness and other forms of hardship.

The Pioneers organized the War Services Committee of the Canadian Motion Picture Industry, which called a general meeting of the industry in the Victoria Theatre to inaugurate a "Win the War" campaign. The late N. L. Nathanson, then Canada's leading movie figure, was made chairman. Out of this—in 1942—grew the Motion Picture Industry War Services Committee, no longer a Pioneers' group, which, led by John J. Fitzgibbons, provided a war effort that won the praise of the citizens and the Government.

In one campaign it sold $750,000 worth of Victory Bonds and it led to Fitzgibbons being among those honored by the late King George VI.

At the first annual meeting, on November 13, 1940 in the Royal York Hotel, it was announced that during the year five branches had been formed. They and their presidents were: Saint John, NB—A. J. Mason; Montreal—Eddie English; Vancouver—W. S. Jones; Calgary—Sime Rost; and Edmonton—Walter Wilson. Clair Hague was returned as president. Harry Alexander became vice-president and J. P. O'Loughlin secretary-treasurer at the directors' meeting a week later.

In 1941 Oscar Hanson became president, Syd Taube vice-president and Ray Lewis secretary-treasurer. That year was important. The first of those famed but now-faded events, the Movie Ball, was proposed. But 1941 was most important for another reason. On February 12, 1943 the Canadian Picture Pioneers Benevolent Fund, proposed in 1941, became a reality, with Hanson as chairman for life. On December 16, 1947 it became the Canadian Picture Pioneers Trust Fund. And Hanson intends to remain chairman, for the Fund is his favorite interest.

The year 1942 found the Pioneers striving for ways to finance the benevolent fund, help the war effort and strengthen the organization.

FOLLOWING the third annual meeting, held on December 1, 1942, the directors elected Clair Hague to serve as president for 1943, with Syd Taube as vice-president and Ray Lewis as secretary-treasurer. At the fourth annual meeting, on December 2, 1943, Pioneer A. W. Perry proposed that a history such as this be printed but the loss of records and photos during a fire in the Film Exchange Building made it difficult to undertake. It should be noted that the annual meetings had become occasions of fraternity and fun, for a jocular initiation of new members had been worked out.

At the directors' meeting following the general gathering Clair Hague was returned as president, Leo Devaney became vice-president, Ray Lewis was again secretary but Charles Mavety was named treasurer. The directors were pleased with the reports from other branches, showing that they were expanding and in full support of the Pioneers' aims.

In 1945 Clair Hague was again president, following the annual meeting of November 29, 1944 and Devaney, Miss Lewis and Mavety were returned with him. In March of 1945 Clair's great heart was stilled by death and his old friend and colleague, Oscar Hanson, became vice-president when Leo Devaney moved into the presidency. The benevolent fund was dedicated as a memorial to Clair. No more fitting tribute could have been devised, for nothing was closer to his heart.

And so the years of public, industry and personal service went on, marked by devotion to the benevolent fund and annual enjoyment. The presidents who followed those mentioned earlier, according to order, are Leo Devaney, 1946; Oscar Hanson, 1947; the Honorable J. Earl Lawson, KC, 1948; Lawson, 1949; Ray Lewis, 1950; Hanson, 1951; N. A. Taylor, 1952; Taylor, 1953; Taylor, 1954.

It should be recorded here that the Honorable J. Earl Lawson was ill during most of his 1949 term and passed away May 13, 1950, deeply mourned as a fine friend and a great gentleman. During that time Morris Stein, the vice-president, assumed the responsibilities of the presidency, as set forth in the by-laws, and won the appreciation of his fellows for his attention to their interests.

The vice-presidents are Oscar Hanson, 1946; Jack Arthur, 1947; Benjamin Cronk, 1948, Morris Stein, 1949; Hanson, 1950; Frank Vaughan, 1951; Don Gauld, 1952; Hanson, 1953; Stein, 1954.

Secretaries and treasurers are Ray Lewis (secretary-treasurer), 1946 and 1947; Charles Mavety (secretary - treasurer) 1948; Mavety (secretary), and George Beeston (treasurer), 1949 and 1950; Mavety (secretary - treasurer), 1951, succeeded by A. J. Laurie in April following his untimely death in January; A. J. Laurie (secretary-treasurer) 1952; Thos. S. Daley (secretary - treasurer), 1953; Daley (secretary-treasurer), 1954.

IN the past few years the Canadian Picture Pioneers has become a very busy organization, rising to industry leadership in several respects and attracting national interest outside the field of the motion picture. For one thing, the benevolent fund has, through the creation of direct and annual donations by firms and individuals, become a lively cause.

That which has attracted the most public interest to the Pioneers are the Pioneer of the Year banquets, which are covered by press and newsreels and receive local and national attention from all mediums of information. No finer aid for motion picture industry public relations has yet appeared. These began under the presidency of N. A. Taylor.

The first banquet honoring a Pioneer was the one given Simon Meretsky of Windsor in the King Edward Hotel, on November 1, 1950. In 1952 the Pioneer of the Year Award was proposed. Because that year marked the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the first successful film theatre in Canada, the Electric on Cordova Street, Vancouver in the Fall of 1902, it was decided to honor Canada's leading motion picture pioneers. A selection panel drawn from in and out of the industry was appointed.

Probably no event in the Canadian motion picture industry received the press attention that did this one, held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto on the evening of November 5, 1952. Present were leading dignitaries representing the municipality, the province and the country, as well as the Crown, for the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the Honorable Louis O. Breithaupt, played a part in the proceedings. Also heard was Canada's famous orator, Leonard W.

Brockington, QC, CMG, and the Honorable Walter Harris, present Minister of Finance. The toastmaster was N. A. Taylor.

The Pioneers honored were John Schuberg of Vancouver, who opened the first successful movie house in Canada and brought films and theatres to many Western Canada communities; George Ganetakos of Montreal; Jule Allen, one of the founders of Canada's first great circuit, who began with a theatre in Brantford in 1906; A. J. Mason of Springhill, NS, who entered the industry in 1906 and served it in many ways; L. Ernest Ouimet of Montreal, who opened the first successful movie in that city on January 1, 1906 and established Canada's first film exchange; and Fred G. Spencer of Saint John, NB, who brought films and theatres to Maritime communities.

In 1953 John J. Fitzgibbons, CBE, was honored as the Pioneer of the Year, with Ray Lewis, Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Cooper and Ben Norrish of Montreal being presented with plaques for "a unique contribution" to the advancement of the industry.

The Pioneer of the Year in 1954 was Jack Arthur, who did much to brighten the appeal to the ear and the eye of entertainment in movie theatres. Also honored that same evening were Charles Stephenson of Toronto as a "Showman Extraordinary" and Will McLaughlin of Ottawa, motion picture editor and critic for The Journal of that city, who stands for "the honor and fairness of the press."

OUT of the determination of Jack Cohn and his supporters that friends were worth remembering and helping at all times, followed by Oscar Hanson's showing his Pioneers' membership card to Ray Lewis and Clair Hague, there was created a bond that endures for the living, even when many who cherished it have left this earth, mourned by the friends of a lifetime. Among those now gone but still remembered are Ray Lewis, Clair Hague, the Honorable Earl Lawson, Leo Devaney, Charles Mavety, Sam Glazer, Sam Sternberg and Jim O'Loughlin.

For them and the others the Canadian Picture Pioneers is a living memorial, dedicated to the friendship, benevolence, mutual enjoyment and public service which they gave and shared.

(g) Members of the corporation may, by a two-thirds vote, remove any director or directors or any officer or officers before the expiration of his or their period of office and may appoint another qualified person or persons in his or their stead for the balance of his or their term at a special general meeting of which notice specifying the intention to pass such resolution shall have been given.

7.—DUTIES OF OFFICERS

(a) All officers of the corporation shall perform the duties prescribed by the by-laws, regulations and resolutions duly passed by the Board of Directors.

OBJECTS AND BY-LAWS

(b) The President shall preside at all meetings of the corporation and of the Board of Directors and shall have the deciding vote in the event of a tie upon any resolution. He shall jointly with the Secretary-Treasurer sign all written contracts made in the name of the corporation and shall jointly with the Secretary-Treasurer sign all bank drafts and cheques. He shall be ex officio member of all Committees. Such duties shall be subject to amendment by by-law from time to time as may be found in the interests of the corporation.

8.—COMMITTEES

(a) Committees may be appointed by the President with consent of a majority of the Board of Directors present at a meeting for any purposes which the Board of Directors deem proper. Any committee so appointed shall investigate and deal with only such specific matters designated to it by the Board of Directors. It shall have only the power of reporting its findings to the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors may act upon such findings in such way as it deems advisable. Each committee shall regulate its own business and shall keep a record of its proceedings. It shall render a report of its acts and proceedings in writing to the Board of Directors within seven days of each meeting of the Committee. It shall also give to the President and Board of Directors all information respecting its transactions and business that may be requested either by the President or the Board of Directors.

(b) Any committee or member of a committee may be discontinued or removed by the President with the consent of a majority of the Board of Directors present at a meeting. Where any member of a committee has been so removed, the President with the consent of a majority of the Board of Directors present at a meeting may appoint some other member of the corporation in the place and stead of the member so removed from the committee.

(c) The expenditures of all committees shall be limited to such sums as the Board of Directors may prescribe. All members of committees shall serve without remuneration.

9.—MEETINGS

OBJECTS AND BY-LAWS

(d) The Board of Directors shall submit to the annual meeting of the members of the corporation a report of their proceedings, acts and transactions during the preceding year. They shall also submit a statement of the financial conditions of the corporation and of its income and expenditures during the preceding year, together with estimates of income and expenditures for the coming year.

(e) Seventeen members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. Members must be present in person and not by proxy.

(f) At each annual meeting there shall be elected eleven directors who shall hold office for one year.

10.—LIMITATION OF LIABILITY

No officer, director, committee or member of the corporation shall incur any debt in behalf of the corporation or in any way render it liable unless by authority of the Board of Directors or by authority of four-fifths of the members of the corporation at an annual meeting or special meeting thereof.

11.—APPOINTMENT OF AUDITOR

(a) The auditor shall be appointed by resolution of the members at the time of the annual meeting of the members of the corporation. (ii) By the corporation because of failure to pay dues when they shall become payable, provided that dues shall remain unpaid sixty days after the due date thereof.

(iii) By the corporation because of a violation of the provisions of the by-laws or regulations or by any act or conduct which the Board of Directors may deem detrimental to the best interests of the corporation after a hearing.

(b) Any member whose membership has been terminated as provided in this by-law may be reinstated to such membership upon terms and conditions within the discretion of the Board of Directors.

(c) The resignation of a member shall not be accepted by the Board of Directors until all outstanding indebtedness and obligations to the corporation shall have been liquidated.

(d) Termination as membership shall operate as a release from and in extinguishment of any and all rights, title, and interest in or to the assets of the corporation which membership therein may confer.

Note:

Pages bearing changes in the Objects and By-Laws will be given to each member whenever such changes become effective. These pages should be inserted here.

Members

Note:

The national structure of the Canadian Picture Pioneers is the same as that of the distribution section of the domestic motion picture industry, the exchange territories being based on travel and transportation facilities. Thus several Pioneer branches are regional, while others are provincial. This explains why, for instance, the Winnipeg branch has members from Saskatchewan and Ontario. The exchange practice of calling the territory by the name of the headquarters city is also followed.

The names of deceased members are preceded by a star.

Steve Rolston Passes

A. E. (Steve) Rolston, who retired in May as Astral Films' Vancouver branch manager because of ill health, died in Rothesay, NB recently. He came into the industry in 1922 with Universal and was honored by the Canadian Picture Pioneers in 1960. He had been with most of the distribution firms during his career. His wife, Irma, survives him.

Note:

The national structure of the Canadian Picture Pioneers is the same as that of the distribution section of the domestic motion picture industry, the exchange territories being based on travel and transportation facilities. Thus several Pioneer branches are regional, while others are provincial. This explains why, for instance, the Winnipeg branch has members from Saskatchewan and Ontario. The exchange practice of calling the territory by the name of the headquarters city is also followed.

The names of deceased members are preceded by a star.

A WISE NATION preserves its records, said Joseph Howe, a great Canadian who helped make Canada a nation. This conviction was also well expressed by a former head of the Public Archives, Arthur G. Doughty: "Of all national assets, archives are the most precious. They are the gift of one generation to another and the extent of our care of them marks the extent of our civilization."

In the year this is written, 1955, there are still alive men who witnessed the first showings of moving pictures in their countries and in 1952, when the Canadian Motion Picture Industry celebrated "The Golden Anniversary of the Silver Screen," John Schuberg of Vancouver, who opened Canada's first successful movie house in 1902, was publicly honored by the Canadian Picture Pioneers. So recent is our history that all or some of its greatest moments are part of the lives of persons still with us.

On the following pages are pictures of people and things related to the Canadian Picture Pioneers and the Canadian Motion Picture Industry. We hope they will help Canadian motion picture people of the future know something of those who came earlier as the pioneers of an art and an industry now invaluable to civilization.

CANADIANS PIONEERED EDISON'S FIRST MACHINE

On April 14, 1894 at 1115 Broadway Thomas Edison's first movie machine, the Kinetoscope, was introduced to the world by Andrew M. and George Holland, Ottawa brothers, who were agents for his products. With that showing of Edison's peepbox Kinetoscope for a charge to patrons the motion picture became an industry.

ANDREW M. HOLLAND

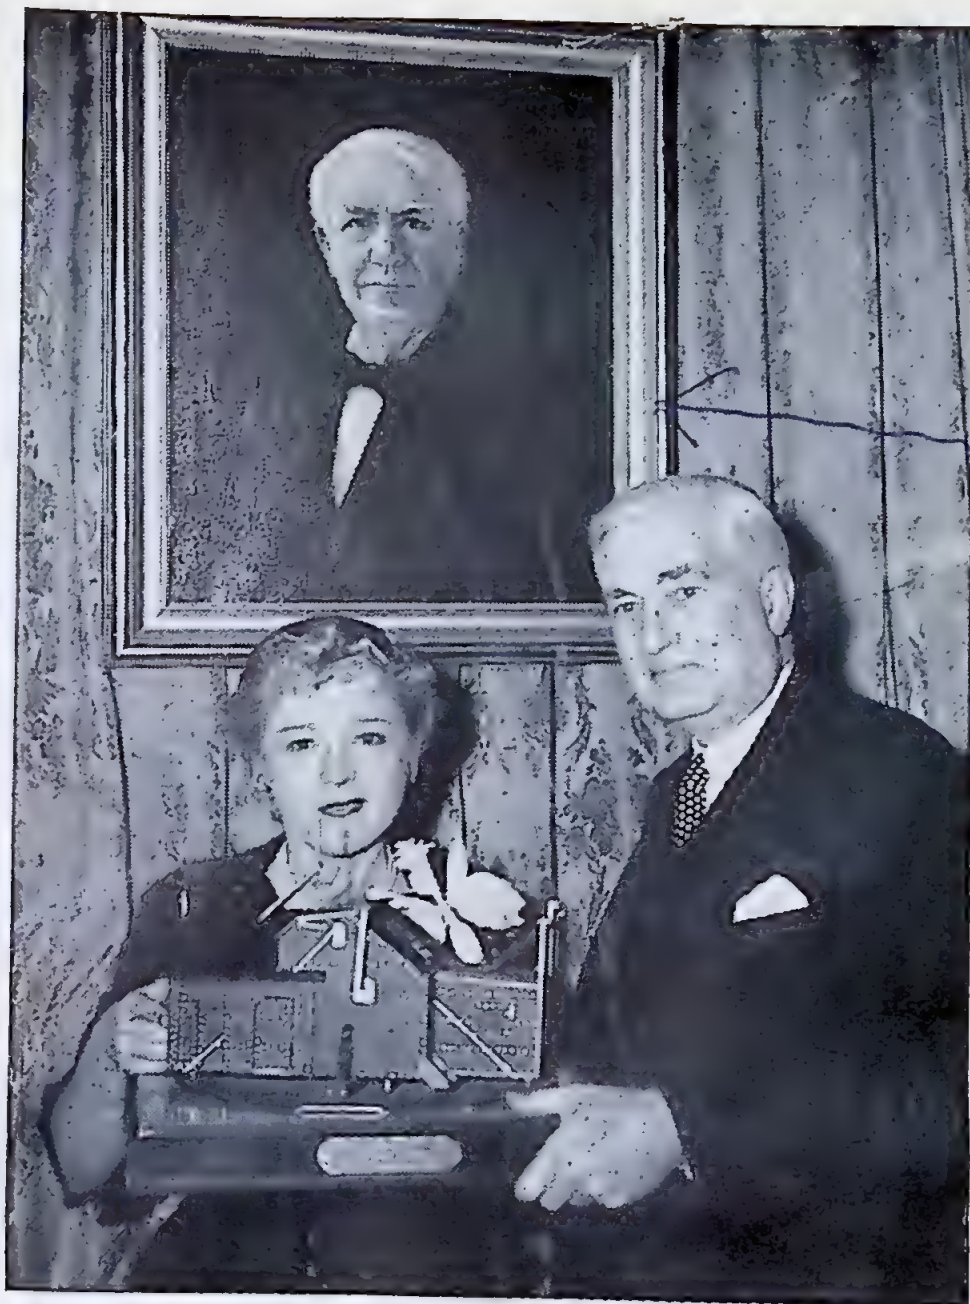

GEORGE HOLLAND

THE FIRST TYPE OF MOVIE HOUSE

After the smash opening of the first Kinetoscope Parlor by the Holland Bros. hundreds of places like this one dotted the world. Then 18 months later in France and England and six months after that in the USA came screen projection.

MARY PICKFORD, CHARLES EDISON AND 'THE BLACK MARIA'

The Toronto-born star was presented with a replica of Thomas Alva Edison's first studio, "The Black Maria," by his son, the former Governor of New Jersey, Charles Edison, at the 1951 gathering in New York of Thomas Edison Associates. They were observing the 104th anniversary of the birth of the inventor, whose father was a Mackenzie rebel who escaped to the USA.

LOUIS AND AUGUSTE LUMIERE OF FRANCE

Thomas Edison could not be stirred into joining the race to invent a projector that would throw an image on a screen, where it could be viewed by an audience. But Edison's Kinetoscope, brought to Britain and France by those who purchased them from the Holland Bros., provided inspiration for others who arrived at screen projection. In Britain Robert Paul, an instrument maker, in learning that the Kinetoscope had not been copyrighted, drew on it in inventing a screen projector.

But it was the Lumiere Bros. of France who demonstrated the first commercial screen projection in the Grand Cafe, Boulevard des Capuchins, Paris on December 28, 1895. They, too, were inspired by Edison's Kinetoscope. Louis Lumiere died in 1948 at the age of 83. This summer France is celebrating the 60th anniversary of the Lumiere's projector, the Cinematographe.

The French made many important contributions to the motion picture before the Lumieres helped establish it as an industry.

THE FIRST TO PUT CANADA ON FILM

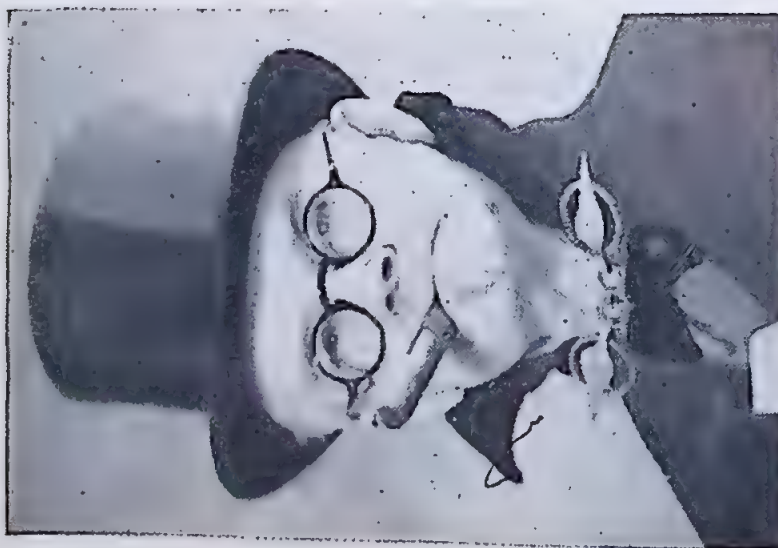

This photograph was taken at Dorval, Quebec in 1900 as this crew was about to photograph the initial journey of the CPR's Imperial Limited. The CPR had brought three of these gentlemen from England to make films of Canada that would induce British immigrants to settle here. The first one on the left, F. Guy Bradford, stayed to become a leading early film theatre figure. The second, Cliff Denham, is today a theatre manager in Victoria and a member of the CPP. The third is T. Bell of the CPR. The fourth, Joe Rosenthal, became one of the world's leading actuality photographers and covered the wars of his time. Their films helped populate Canada and they began our tradition of superiority in documentary films. Bradford died in the USA years ago.

It took about two years to finish the project, since the crew was under orders not to make any winter scenes, the CPR not wanting to strengthen the misconception that Canada was just a land of ice and snow. The films were shown in English town halls and theatres under the title, Living Canada, with a lecturer at each performance.

THE FIRST WARNER BROS. THEATRE — 1906

Sam, Jack and Albert Warner had been touring exhibitors and in 1906, with Harry, opened this theatre, their first, in New Castle, Pennsylvania, converting a vacant store.

WAS JOHN C. GREEN OUR FIRST SCREEN PROJECTIONIST?

John C. Green, a touring magician when he died at 85, always claimed that he showed the first screen movies in Canada at the Ottawa Street Railway Park early in June, 1896, using an Edison-Armat projector a few weeks after it made its bow at Koster & Bial's Music Hall, NY. He toured with moving pictures for many years after that, the above "mailout piece," as he described it, having been used in 1905. Green, shown on the previous page, travelled with a stereoptican exhibition throughout Canada before the movies.

TROUBLE IN THE BAD OLD 'GOOD OLD DAYS'

J. R. Williams, in this cartoon of his popular Born Thirty Years Too Soon series for NEA Service, Inc., gets some laughs out of the problems of theatre operation in the store-show days.

FLASHBACKS OF JOHN A. SCHUBERG'S ADVENTURES

In the fall of 1898 Edison offered his Kinetograph for sale and John Schuberg, a Vancouver showman, bought one. In the neighboring city of Seattle he stocked up on films and stereopticon slides of the Spanish-American War, then rented an empty storeroom on Cordova Street and ran a 30-minute show for which the audience stood. After the Vancouver venture he took to the road with films and later opened theatres.

In the first picture we see Schuberg's black-top tent at a 1900 street fair. He was exhibiting one of George Melies' moon films from France. The second shows his Unique Theatre, Winnipeg in 1904. It had been an undertaking parlor.

THE FIRST SUCCESSFUL CINEMA IN MONTREAL

This was opened on January 1, 1906 by L. Ernest Ouimet, honorary president of the Quebec branch of the CPP, at St. Catherine and Montcalm. On the next page is the first deluxe theatre, a 1,000-seat one opened in October, 1907. Both theatres were called the Ouimetoscope.

THE FIRST MOVIE HOUSE IN TORONTO

In March, 1906 John Griffin invited surprised Torontonians to visit his first theatre, the Theatorium, which stood on Yonge Street, near Queen, almost where the front of Loew's is now. A few years later, when this picture was taken, it had become the Red Mill. This was to become the first of his 11 Toronto theatres and others throughout Ontario. Griffin claimed that it was the first regular theatre in Canada and that the only one west of New York at that time was in Pittsburgh. He was probably referring to the theatre which was the first to offer a continuous performance, opened by John P. Harris in 1905, which ran from 8 a.m. to midnight. The Theatorium, 17 feet wide and 100 feet deep, operated from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

The boy looking at the sign is Arthur Milligan, a past president of the Toronto projectionists' union and a member of the CPP.

Many members of the Pioneers worked for John Griffin, who was a circus showman when he saw the first store shows and decided to try one in Toronto. He showed The Train Wreckers for a five-cent admission, then changed the policy to films and vaudeville and charged ten cents. Griffin, who died in 1931, saw his theatre grow into an Ontario circuit that was one of the best on the continent.

Griffin's major accomplishment, like that of Ouimet in Montreal, was the opening of a continuously successful movie house, even though he relied on vaudeville. Films were being shown everywhere but not in a permanent location. He established permanency in exhibition in Toronto and the motion picture theatre industry developed from that. Some of the oldest Pioneers entered the theatre business through John Griffin.

DR. FATHER'S HONOR

A Thrilling Story of Love vs. Duty

JULE ALLEN OF 'THE ALLENS' IN 1909

The Allens came from Bradford, Pennsylvania and opened their first theatre in Brantford, Ontario early in 1906. Jule Allen visited that city, then passed along the word to his father, Barney, and his brother, Jay. In a few years they began building theatres right across Canada — theatres that were the finest of the day. Their holdings in theatres and film exchanges were worth many millions of dollars in the 20's. Today the Allen family operates Theatre Holding Corporation and has a 50 per cent partnership with Columbia Pictures in that company's Canadian film exchange.

Jule Allen is shown in the centre of the photo. On the right is former vice-president of the Pioneers, Ben Cronk, now a resident of California. Ben became the general manager for the Allen interests when they branched out nationally. As with Griffin, the Allens brought quite a few of our Pioneers into the film trade.

THE PICKFORDS OF CANADA — ALL TOGETHER

This famous photograph of some of the leading film players of 1910 is of special interest to Canadians because it shows the four Pickfords of Toronto together. It was taken when Carl Laemmle formed the Independent Motion Picture Company, which later became Universal, in the fight against the patent combine.

Some years ago Miss Pickford was the guest of honor at a dinner given in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, by the Association of Motion Picture Producers and Laboratories of Canada. She had come to the Capital to officiate at the annual presentations of the Canadian Film Awards.

The shining star of those early days who led the motion picture industry into greater accomplishment was Gladys Smith of Toronto, who was born on University Avenue. As Mary Pickford she became America's Sweetheart and the most popular player in movie history. Her mother played a vital part in her career, as well as that of her sister, Lottie, and her brother, Jack. Mary survived them.

There is much about the Pickfords' Toronto background in the recently-issued autobiography of Mary Pickford, titled Sunshine and Shadows.

Grand opening

WHERE, O WHERE ARE THE FACES OF YESTERYEAR? WHOSE ARE THESE?

This photograph, taken in 1909 outside the Allen Theatre, Kitchener, Ontario, was reproduced in the centennial edition of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record. They are obviously people who had some connection with the theatre. None are familiar any longer to Jule Allen, who with his late brother, Jay, founded the theatre. Does anyone remember any of these people? Kitchener's first movie, The Theatrorium, opened on January 1, 1907. This photo provides a look at a typical theatre of the old days, when movies were novel enough to attract the most attention with provocative paper, hung anywhere possible. The posters carry such famous old-time names as Kalem and Vitagraph. The titles have a familiar look: A Modern Jekyll and Hyde and The Outlaw.

THE OLD REGENT THEATRE IN TORONTO

X Here began what is now Famous Players Canadian Corporation, by far Canada's largest circuit. In 1916 the late N. L. Nathanson and his associates purchased the Majestic Theatre, on Adelaide near Bay, from Ambrose Small and rebuilt it from an old-fashioned melodrama house into a modern place of entertainment. It was the first deluxe theatre movie house in Toronto.

In 1920 the Nathanson group joined with Adolph Zukor to found what is now Famous Players Canadian Corporation, one of the world's great film exhibition companies.

Nathanson had come to Toronto from Minneapolis, selling outdoor advertising in the winter and amusement park refreshments in the summer. He interested some people with money in purchasing the Regent and from this grew his tremendous accomplishments in spreading theatres and exchanges, even outgrowing the Allens and sharing their business activities.

THE HON. J. EARL LAWSON, KC

The Canadian Picture Pioneers owes much to Mr. Lawson, a one-time projectionist who became a cabinet minister in Ottawa and was president of the J. Arthur Rank Organization of Canada at the time of his passing.

THE CANADIAN MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY IN WW I

Film and theatre workers did their share of the work and the fighting that helped win World War I, just as they did in WW II. This float appeared in a parade during WW I.

CLAIR HAGUE
(1886-1945)

The memory of the great old-time showman will always be green. He was the first Pioneers' president.

THE PHOTOS ON THE NEXT TWO PAGES: PIONEERS

Both cuts are part of a single photo taken at a meeting in the Royal York Hotel on May 1, 1940. Among those in the pictures are Harry Allen, Herbert Allen, Louis Rosenfeld, Jule Allen, Haskell Masters, Win Brown, David Ongley, Oscar Hanson, John J. Fitzgibbons, Ray Lewis, Clair Hague, Charles Mavely, Jules Laine, Abe Wilkes, Earl Armstrong, Tom Marsden, William Redpath, Sam Glazer, Harry Ginsler, Harold Pfaff, William Brady, Ernie Moule, Joe Garbarino, William Summerville, Sr., Sam Sternberg, Jacob Smith, Harry Painter, Walter Kennedy, Sydney Taube, Ben Cronk, A. "The Golden Anniversary of the Silver Screen" — 1952

HONORING THOSE WHO LED THE WAY IN CANADA

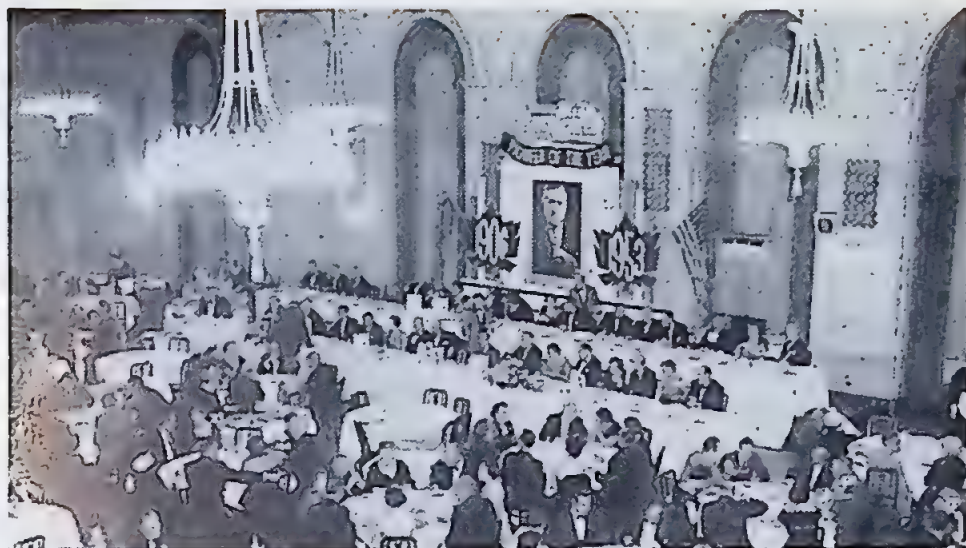

On November 5, 1952, the Canadian Picture Pioneers celebrated a half-century of the motion picture theatre in Canada, dating it from the Electric Theatre, Vancouver, by honoring six industry pioneers at a great dinner in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, which was attended by representatives of each segment of government and guests from all over our country and as well as some from the USA and Britain.

Five of those honored are shown on the previous page, the sixth, Fred G. Spencer of Saint John, having passed on just prior to the ceremony. The onyx-and-gold symbol which marked the honor was presented to his family through his son, F. Gordon Spencer. Since this photograph two shown in it, John Schuberg of Vancouver and George Ganetakos of Montreal, have passed on.

Left to right, the photo shows Mr. Schuberg, who opened the Electric Theatre; Mr. Ganetakos; Jule Allen, Toronto, who with his brother, Jay, and his father, Barney, began a history-making career in Brantford, Ontario in the Fall of 1906; N. A. Taylor, president of the Pioneers, who acted as toastmaster; A. J. Mason, Springhill, NS, who entered the industry in 1906 and became important in the Maritime field; and L. Ernest Ouimet, honorary president of the Quebec branch of the CPP, who opened Montreal's first successful film house, Canada's first film exchange and one of the world's first deluxe cinemas.

Mr. Ganetakos was the leading figure in United Amusement Corporation of Montreal, Mr. Allen is president of Premier Operating Corporation and Mr. Taylor is president of Twinex Century Theatres Corporation Limited.

The First Pioneer of the Year Award Dinner — 1953

FOUR WHOSE CONTRIBUTIONS WILL BE REMEMBERED

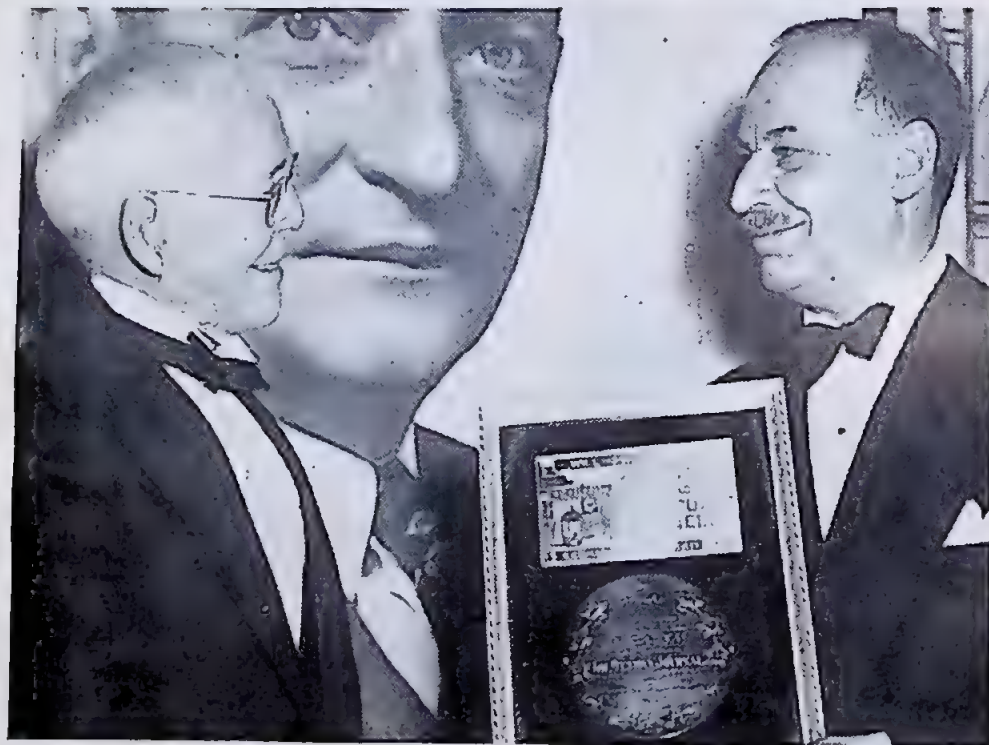

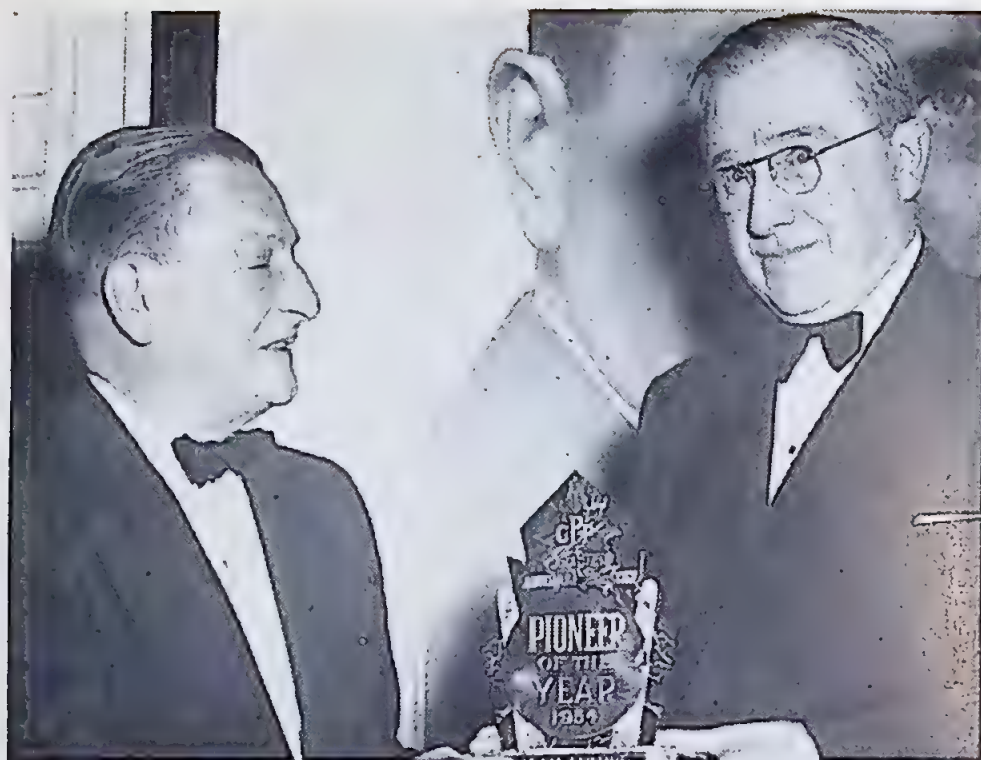

The choice of The Pioneer of the Year was not made until the year after that honor was created, so that The Golden Anniversary of the Silver Screen could be celebrated and certain of the oldest and most deserving pioneers offered the appreciation of the industry in connection with it.

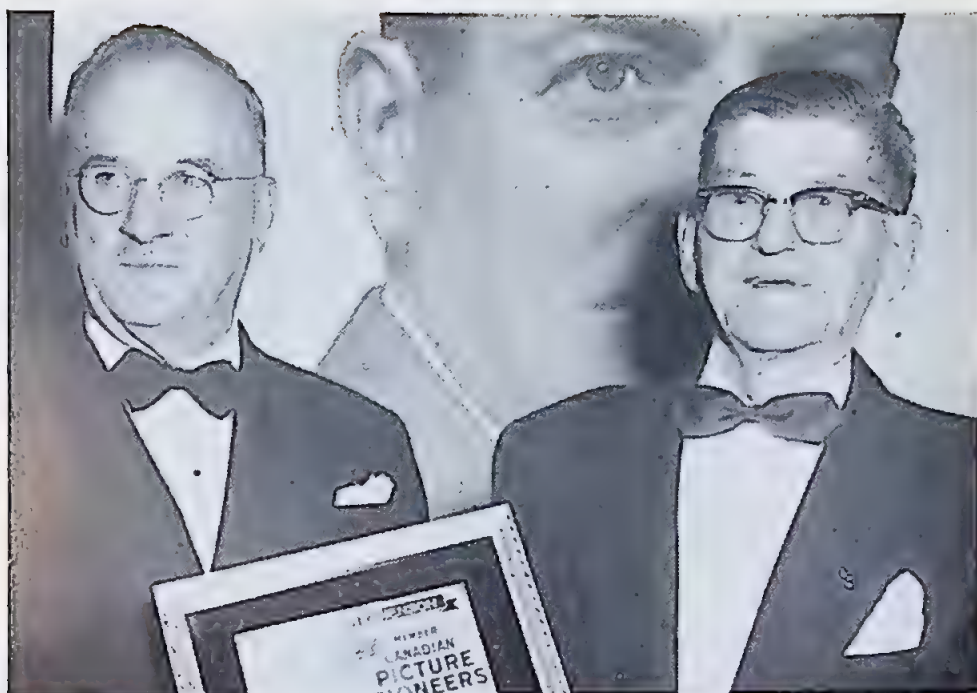

The first Pioneer of the Year was John J. Fitzgibbons, CBE, president of Famous Players Canadian Corporation, for many years an active leader of the industry in business and welfare matters. In the top photo on the previous page we see Mr. Fitzgibbons, left, after N. A. Taylor, CPP president, presented him with a symbol of the honor, a bronze portrait plaque designed by Emmanuel Hahn.

Also on the previous page, bottom photo, are three others honored at the Award dinner—Lt.-Col. John A. Cooper and Ray Lewis, both of Toronto, and Bernard E. Norrish of Montreal—for "distinguished and unique" contributions to the industry. They are holding the framed testimonials, each two inscribed gold plates on a field of black velvet, which were designed by Thomas S. Daley, chairman of the CPP Award Dinner committee since its inception. Miss Lewis passed on in July, 1954.

Lt.-Col. Cooper, now retired, was chairman of the board of the Canadian Motion Picture Distributors Association for many years and in that capacity was one of the industry's leading spokesmen. Miss Lewis (Mrs. Joshua Smith) was for many years publisher of the industry's first trade paper, the Canadian Moving Picture Digest, and one of the CPP's founders. Bernard E. Norrish, now retired, introduced fact films to the world while with the Canadian Government and later helped found Associated Screen News, of which he was president, as a laboratory and producing company.

Leading figures of the USA and British motion picture industry joined Canadian film and theatre people from every province in Canada at the dinner, these being welcomed to Toronto by Mayor Allan Lamport and to Ontario by the Prime Minister's representative, the Hon. Philip Kelly.

The Pioneer of the Year Award Dinner — 1954

TWO SHOWMEN AND A FILM CRITIC ARE HONORED

Considered by many to be Canada's leading stage showman, Jack Arthur was honored as The Pioneer of the Year in December, 1954, being presented with an onyx-and-gold symbol for the CPP by John J. Fitzgibbons, CBE, who had received the Award the previous year. In the days of the silent screen Arthur brought color and life to cinemas with his special musical accompaniment and prologues, all based on the film. Mr. Arthur and Mr. Fitzgibbons are shown in the top photograph on the previous page.

Two others were honored that evening—Will McLaughlin, film critic of The Ottawa Journal, and Charles Stephenson, 20th Century Theatres' public relations director, a veteran of exhibition and distribution who came into the industry from the stage.

Mr. McLaughlin, dean of Canada's press commentators on the film, is shown being presented with a plaque for the CPP by N. A. Taylor, the president, in the bottom photo on the previous page.

The photo on this page shows Stephenson, right, with O. R. Hanson, who made the presentation to him. Mr. Hanson, who introduced the idea of a Canadian Pioneers' organization and has been president several times in its history, is life chairman of the CPP trust fund, through which the industry's less fortunate are helped.

As with the previous Pioneer of the Year Award Dinner and the one before that celebrating the Canadian cinema theatre's 50th anniversary, the occasion was considered to have interest for all Canadians. Newspapers and radio stations carried news of it, and Canadians were shown pictures through television and newsreels.

Cleary broke into the film business as an usher in the Allen Theatre, Montreal over 30 years ago. He used to study the press books and all other printed material, including orders and records, related to advertising and eventually found himself in that field, which he preferred to other types of film industry work.

The Montreal branch has always been one of the most active and its annual meetings draw Pioneers from all parts of the province. Across the years it has attracted as guests the leading political figures of the province and the city. Most certainly the annual meeting is the leading fraternal event in the Quebec film-theatre community. Not only has the branch assisted members but it has helped bring the Quebec motion picture industry the high regard it enjoys and the important place it holds.

THIS VOLUME was so arranged that it can serve as a continuing record. You may insert whatever additional information you receive from year to year—the president's report, the new national and branch officers, amendments to the by-laws, the story of the Pioneer of the Year Award, photographs of the past and present, etc. I suggest that branches make photographs of meetings and presentations, as well as historical pictures, available for inclusion.

I would like here to thank Hye Bossin, managing editor of the Canadian Film Weekly and editor of the Year Book of the Canadian Motion Picture Industry, who is regarded as our leading trade historian. He has prepared this volume at the request of the executive board of the Canadian Picture Pioneers.

The Pioneer of the Year Award Dinner—1956

A CO-FOUNDER, A BRANCH, A GOOD CITIZEN HONORED

Oscar Hanson, co-founder of the Canadian Picture Pioneers with the late Clair Hague and the late Ray Lewis, was chosen by a special panel to be honored as The Pioneer of the Year for 1956. Probably no previous Award Dinner drew so many guests. The Prime Minister of Ontario, the Honorable Leslie Frost, QC, came to his first such occasion in order to personally make the presentation to the guest of honor, an old friend. Among the guests were His Worship Nathan Phillips, QC, Mayor of Toronto, and Wm. J. Stewart, former Mayor of Toronto and former Speaker of the House, Ontario Legislative Assembly.

The top photo on the opposite page shows the general scene in the Crystal Ballroom of the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. The left bottom photo shows N. A. Taylor, past president, handing the annual branch service award to Hy Swartz, president of the Winnipeg unit. The right photo shows F. Gordon Spencer, left, accepting the Special Award of the CPP for his Saint John, NB townsman, James A. Whitebone, MBE, from John J. Fitzgibbons, CBE.

MORRIS STEIN

I AM happy to say to my fellow Pioneers that since the previous report your organization has continued to make good progress in the fraternal and charitable work to which we are all dedicated. It is particularly gratifying that during the past two years the Pioneers have become a truly national brotherhood, mainly through measures that established closer ties and brought about a regular exchange of information between the provincial branches and the national organization.

At the annual meetings of the national board of directors, held prior to the Pioneer of the Year Award Dinner, branch representatives, all of whom have a seat on the board, participate in discussion and planning that leads to a better understanding of our aims and objects. As a result a great revival of interest and activity has developed and, under the inspired leadership of branch executives, the membership has been increased substantially. Even more gratifying are the achievements of a number of branches, particularly Winnipeg and Vancouver, which have made excellent contributions to the great work of the Pioneers Trust Fund.

The work of the Trust Fund, under the vigorous and self-sacrificing leadership of Oscar Hanson, continues to do the job of supplying the needs of the less fortunate members of the industry. This great humanitarian cause merits the support not only of Pioneers but of everyone in the Motion Picture Industry.

It is difficult to enumerate here the fine jobs that have been done by officers, directors and various committees who do the work of successfully arranging and handling the various social and fund-raising events, including the annual meeting, golf tournament, theatre night and Award Dinner, to name some. To all of these and to the rest of the membership my heartfelt thanks for wonderful assistance, support and understanding — and for having helped make my term of office a heartwarming experience.

I am certain that under the leadership of the fine men who will in the future guide the destinies of the Pioneers the work and the service of our organization will grow and the stature of the Canadian Picture Pioneers will be even greater as the years go by.

Wm. (Billy) Summerville, Sr. Honored as The Pioneer of the Year—1957

The Toronto exhibitor, former legislator and old-time vaudevillian is in the centre panel, flanked by Morris Stein, CPP president, and Jack Arthur, MBE, 1954 winner, who made the presentation. On the left N. A. Taylor, past president, presents the branch service citation to Owen Bird for Vancouver. On the right Ken Leach of Calgary receives the Special Award from Mayor Don Mackay of that city. left, who was introduced by R. W. Bolstad, CPP vice-president. The sons of Billy Summerville, Billy Jr. and Don, are also in the business.

Golf Provides an Enjoyable Afternoon for British Columbia Theatre Men

Among the members of the British Columbia branch were men who were known throughout Canada for their work in bringing theatres to many communities for the first time, notably John Schuberg, who opened Canada's first steadily successful cinema, the Electric, in Vancouver in 1902, and W. P. Dewees, also of Vancouver. Both have passed on. In the membership roster today are such popular film-theatre lads as E. W. Bickle, J. H. Boothe, E. H. Dalgleish, Charlie Doctor, Myron McLeod, Steve Rolston, Frank Gow, Art Gruburn, Earl Hayter, Al Jenkins, Gerry Sutherland, Sam Tyler, Harry Woolfe and Jack Zaitzow. The BC branch won the annual CCP special award last year for good work.

Allan Spencer 'Quebec Picture Pioneer of 1958'

A highlight of the tenth annual meeting of the Quebec Branch of the Canadian Picture Pioneers was the presentation of a plaque to Allan Spencer, director of publicity for United Amusement Corporation, as the Quebec Pioneer of the Year for 1958. He is shown on the right receiving the plaque from Senator Sarto Fournier, Mayor of Montreal, as Phil Maurice, re-elected president, and Bill Singleton, a past president, look on.

R. W. BOLSTAD

TO BE asked by his fellows to head an organization which owes its steady progress in recent years to the gifted leadership of such predecessors in office as Nat Taylor and Morris Stein is not only a great compliment but a challenge to one's confidence in himself.

They accomplished the remarkable task of moving the Canadian Picture Pioneers forward at a time when the motion picture industry was slipping back.

During my terms of office I learned their secret. It was the excellent efforts of each branch and the Pioneers in them, as well as the help given the president by the loyal, hard-working members of his board.

These Pioneers of every province helped my record of service, heading committees for the various affairs and events that fed the evergrowing requirements of the benevolent fund, which is the conscience of all our members.

Their fine examples of fraternity and benevolence attracted the admiration of the trade as a whole, for dozens of members were added to our rolls while I had the honor to be your president. This was a tribute to the organization and a source of great pleasure to me.

I am grateful to you, my fellow-Pioneers — and friends.

President's Message, 1960

FRANK H. FISHER

IT IS my great pleasure to head the Canadian Picture Pioneers through two of the most exciting years in the history of the motion picture industry — years when the great field in which we serve is continuing the change that will not end until it is almost completely reshaped.

The Canadian Picture Pioneers is now well past a score of years and approaching a quarter century of existence. I'm sure that when Oscar Hanson called in Clair Hague and Ray Lewis to form the Canadian Picture Pioneers Film Club, which soon became the CPP, they did not foresee that the years ahead would be even more uncertain than those of the Depression they had just left behind.

It makes a man feel good that in such challenging times his fellow-members of the Pioneers should help him in his efforts to lead them by banding even more closely together, rather than permitting the spirit of fraternity and devotion to the interests of the less fortunate to wither.

I am proud of the activity of our branches during my service and grateful to them. They have lived up to our highest ideals by working together to help the Trust Fund, on which those in need depend.

My congratulations to my fellow-Pioneers of the Maritime, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver branches.

At the Annual Vancouver Film Trade Picnic, 1960

Over 100 kiddies were in the crowd that attended the annual picnic of the Vancouver motion picture community, held at Birch Bay, Washington, on a Sunday. Pioneer members took advantage of the occasion to make a long-delayed presentation to Bob Kelly of the Odeon, New Westminster, who was given the golf prize he won in 1958.

Jimmy Davie, left, looks on as Kelly gets the prize from Donn Foli, president of the Vancouver Picture Pioneers, as do Dave Gilfillan and Art Graburn from the rear.

The success of the picnic was owed to Art Graburn, Charlie Earle and Sid Freedman, along with those who aided them.
